

PMC Data Sheet

Important information

Typical pile head preparation required for bored pile test

The pile head should be built up above ground at least two pile diameters, preferably in a thin walled steel liner and finished with a smooth level surface.

Two “windows” are then cut diametrically opposite each other to expose smooth sound concrete to enable transducers to be attached for accurate measurement.

Bored pile head preparation

Inclined bored pile dynamic test